

In this lesson, we will learn...

The key role that play has in training creativity. Play provides a game atmosphere that marginalizes consequences, diminishes pressure and allows a safe environment for failure that promotes taking risks.

The creative process can be seen as a game with three main steps: opening, experimenting and closing.

To conclude...

Play is vital in training creative processes. Play provides a game atmosphere that marginalizes consequences, diminishes pressure and allows a safe environment for failure that promotes taking risks.

Play offers a board game of open possibilities while maintaining its structure. By playing, improvisation and ideation can be worked out.

If we show, we sensitize ...
If we sensitize, we protect!

Strategic play uses storytelling as a mean to reach a specific problem. This activity is more powerful when the playful problem resembles closely the real problem.

The creative process can be seen as a game with three main steps: opening, experimenting and closing.

If we show, we sensitize ...
If we sensitize, we protect!
